USPs

- ✔ Lessons are relevant to the modern world; involving topics which are increasingly relevant in our students' lives.
- ✔ A course which aims to push students to think critically; looking at the world and issues in a variety of ways, and take on points of view which aren't necessarily their own.
- ✔ A course with a focus on creativity; getting students creating content to deadlines in a variety of formats.
- ✔ A course with a huge focus on collaboration. All lessons aim to maximise speaking and leverage the multicultural nature of the classes.
- ✔ A course which prepares students to stand up in front of an audience and present ideas and debate.
- ✔ Weekly themes which give purpose to learning, so students can see why they are studying content, and how themes relate to bigger pictures. This also gives students a change to recycle and apply their language in a variety of formats.
- ✔ Gamified learning to motivate students to perform. Work may result in gaining territory in a civilization game, earning social credit points in the dystopian week, or contributing to your overall budget for the summer festival.
